About JADPRO

Advanced practitioners (APs) in oncology are key members of the interdisciplinary team, with educational and informational needs unique to their profession.

To meet these needs, Harborside, Powered by BroadcastMed, launched the Journal of the Advanced Practitioner in Oncology (JADPRO) in 2010. The mission of JADPRO is to improve the quality of care for patients with cancer, support critical issues in advanced practice in oncology, and recognize the expanding contributions of advanced practitioners in oncology.

Beth Faiman, PhD, MSN, APRN-BC, AOCN®, BMTCN, FAAN, FAPO, of the Cleveland Clinic is the Editor-in-Chief.

About APSHO

APSHO is a nonprofit membership organization consisting of over 5,000 nurse practitioners, PAs, pharmacists, clinical nurse specialists, and advanced practice nurses, all working in oncology. The organization began in January 2014. The society represents the multidisciplinary setting in which all advanced practitioners work. This team approach to cancer treatment offers the best hope for patients' treatment, quality of life, and survivorship.

Why Participate?

JADPRO Live will be attended by an important and diverse audience of advanced practitioners in oncology. Whether you are interacting in the Exhibit Hall, at a 30-minute Product Theater, or during a 1-hour independent satellite symposium, this is an excellent opportunity to meet face-to-face with crucial members of oncology practice.
